DOPUST/ Days of open performance VIENNA is an international festival of performance art and will be held in Vienna for the first time. The festival will showcase the extraordinary diversity of performance art connected to the topic MASCULINE ICONS, as over 26 artists will present works that spans from happening, action, public intervention, body art to video, photography and music. The two-week art program will be focused on masculinity and manliness and is divided into three parts: a workshop, performance days and two exhibitions.

There are numerous forms and expressions of gender, of "being masculine" or "being male". Masculinity and femininity or one's gender identity refers to the degree to which persons see themselves as masculine or feminine. The artists and art theoretician from different countries and cultural backgrounds who have been invited will perform or lecture at the gallery or somewhere in Vienna, dealing with the topic. All these works and performances may not accurately reflect reality and we will see if there really is a different manifestation of visible hegemonic masculinities in different cultures and history. The program is complemented by lectures and discussions on the topic of masculine icon by artists and renowned scientists.
